Our 2021 spring clean-up days are scheduled for Friday and Saturday, April 23 and 24. If you would like to participate in this event, please contact Ed Martin at efmartin88@gmail.com. We will be grateful for any time you can give us.

Our two new displays, the Trooper Mannequin Corner and the Lambertson Case, are coming together very nicely. The Museum is gradually being professionally painted, and Adam Jewell's wife Jamie is painting the smaller rooms.

In early March, Captain Jason Sapp and Corporal/3 Adam Jewell were interviewed by a reporter from "The 302 Show." Their interview highlighted the Museum and its many offerings. The show will air later this spring or in early summer – we'll announce the exact date and time.

The Museum continues to remain closed to the public; however, it can be available to DSP personnel for some limited-seating meetings and training sessions. Museum members with a need to reserve space can call or email Peggy Anderson for assistance with a reservation.

In closing, as we all welcome increased availability of the vaccines and hope for much better days ahead, it seems only right to pause in remembrance of the victims of COVID-19 and their families. Likewise, we need to recognize the service of the doctors, nurses, healthcare workers, and first responders who are still working unselfishly to keep us safe.

Regards, John Miller

Each year the season of spring brings warmer weather, beautiful flowers, and an uplifting sense of rebirth. This year, especially, I think we all are ready for a new beginning and some bright sunshine.

Next month we will honor those officers who have lost their lives in the line of duty. In 1962, President John F. Kennedy proclaimed May 15, National Peace Officers Day, to be a part of National Police Week. Established by a joint resolution of Congress, also in 1962, National Police Week honors those law enforcement officers who have given their lives in service and protection of others.

The Continental Congress adopted June 14 as Flag Day in 1777, and the United States Congress permanently established that day as National Flag Day in 1949. This is supposed to be a day of celebration and recognition of our flag, providing an opportunity for our country to reaffirm its commitment to liberty and justice for all.

“The 302 Show,” a WHYY community news program, will feature Captain Jason Sapp and Corporal/3 Adam Jewell in a segment that will air in late spring or early summer. Captain Sapp and Corporal Jewell were interviewed by one of the show’s reporters in mid-March to highlight the Museum and all it has to offer. Air date and time are yet to be determined – to be announced.

Additional information about other future events such as Clean-Up Days, ARDSP Golf Tournament, and the next Board of Directors meeting can be found in this newsletter.

Please note that the Museum will be closed on Friday, April 2; Monday, April 5; and Monday, May 31.

Stay Safe,
Peggy
